

act_report

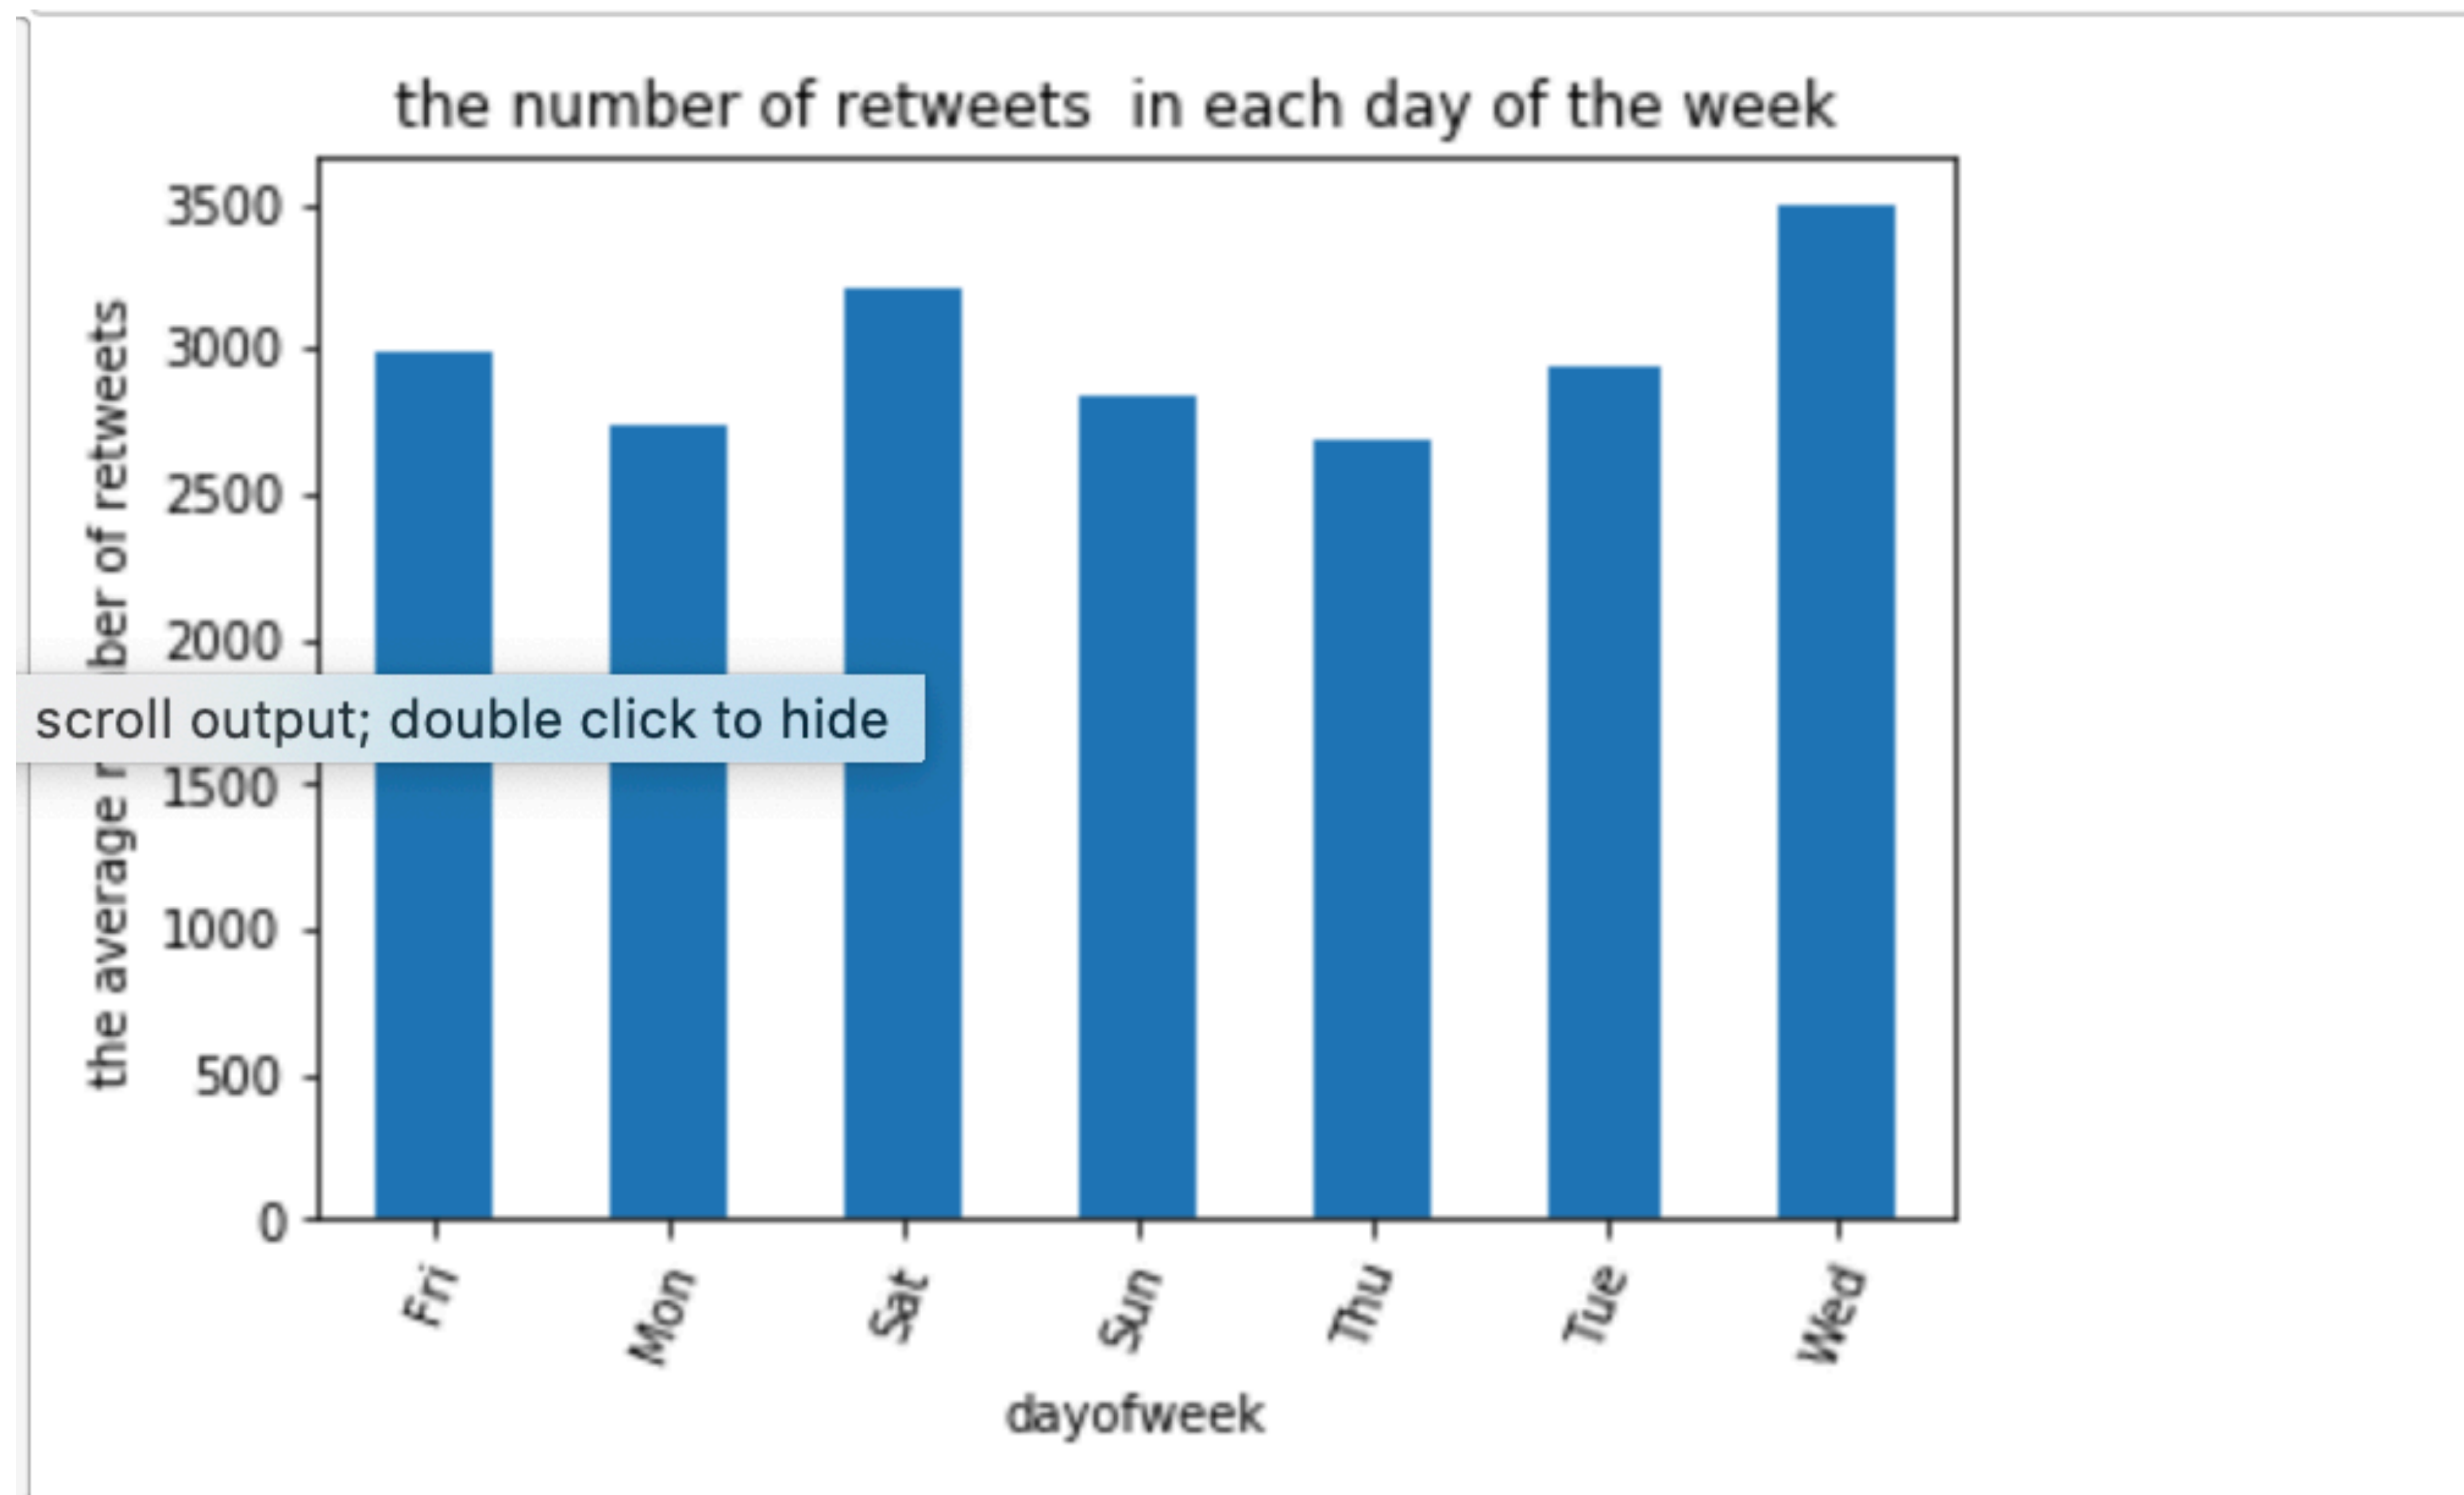

documentation and visualisation of analysis and insights into final data what is the relationship between favorite_count and retweet_count?

Generally positive correlation the number of retweets increase as the number of favourites dose the day of the week have an impact on retweet_count?

as we can see Wednesday got most retweets number and the Thursday got less retweets number among other days, but the difference between each day is not significant what is the number of tweets in each month ?

there is noticable variation of average tweets number in each m,onth the lowest number of tweets in August and the highest in December .